Last Chance to Submit Feedback About our Upcoming Equity Action Teams!

Since April, Campus Compact of Oregon has been collecting feedback about our upcoming Equity Action Teams. We want to know: What do YOU think the Action Teams should focus on? What are the most pressing issues on your campus or at your organization that you feel we should address together?

Announced at our REACH Luncheon, Equity Action Teams will be made up of faculty, staff, administrators, students, and community members from 2-yr, 4-yr, public and private institutions, committed to creating change on a specific focus area related to educational inequity. We have these teams will work to develop specific recommendations for both policy and practice, which we can promote and advocate for. We will be holding orientation trainings, primers on the equity lens we use, in September and October. These trainings will be hosted around the State hosted in Eastern and Southern Oregon, the Mid-Willamette Valley and Portland. Members of past EASEE cohorts and anyone attending the orientation trainings will be welcome to join the Equity Action Teams.

Click below to highlight your top choices for focus areas. If you are willing to participate on the action team share your contact information. The survey closes in three weeks. We will be in touch and announce the Teams in September!

National Campus Compact has two open staff positions!

Interested in working for Campus Compact? The National office in Boston, MA has TWO job openings. National Campus Compact is looking to deepen their own commitment to equity and social justice and this will be a focus of hiring for both positions.

A new position, Vice President of Network Leadership, will support executive directors of state and regional Campacts. Our own Josh Todd will serve on the search and hiring committee for this position so let us know if you plan to apply!

National is also looking for an experienced Communications Manager. Focused on web-based communications, this staff person "plays an essential role in shaping a message in support of collective action to produce an engaged higher education sector working toward a just, equitable, and sustainable democracy."

University of Oregon Highlights Latino Roots Class: Interdisciplinary, Community Engaged and Culturally Responsive

"It's part history, part sociology, part anthropology, part journalism and part documentary filmmaking, but it's all about the experience. The 400-level Latino Roots course is an example of the many compelling, hands-on, educational opportunities we offer at the University of Oregon. With an eye on history and a hand in technology, this course combines the theoretical with the practical and empowers students to apply their new knowledge in the real world.

An intensive, two-term, 20-week course, Latino Roots is offered every other academic year. During the first term, centered in a formal classroom setting, students learn about the history of racial identity formation in Oregon. Next, the class moves to the Cinema Studies Lab in Knight Library for hands-on training in the use of audio-video technology and editing software, as well as learning the art of documentary storytelling.

"I'm blown away by how hard and fun it is," said Juan Camacho, a nontraditional student majoring in anthropology. "And all those skills I didn't have in the 'real world.' I can see now—Oh, so this is where you get those skills."
